Social Security and Medicare Course Description:
The Social Security Administration tells us that 10,000 Americans will turn 65 today, tomorrow and every single day for the next 14 years. This is the single biggest demographic change in the history of our country, with the single biggest need for advice. As Americans approach retirement age, they do not know where to turn for unbiased advice. In this crucial course, we provide you with the knowledge, the software and the guides to offer this new phenomenally in-demand advice to your clients. Updated for the latest changes, this course has new chapters on adding a Social Security consulting practice (with marketing and engagement letters as well as software guides) and planning situations. We recommend this class to all professionals of all ages because of the long-term planning possibilities.
